FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

INDEPENDENCE CAUCUS ENDORSES MARK REED, FOR CONGRESS

California, (March 8, 2010) – The Independence Caucus is proud to announce their support for Congressional Candidate Mark Reed in California's 27th Congressional District.

The Independence Caucus carefully chooses candidates based on an extensive vetting process, and after running the gambit, Mark Reed, can now count himself as one of Independence Caucus' family.

Mark is a descendant of the Mohawk and Apache, mixed with German, English, Spanish and French. After graduation from El Camino Real High School in 1975, Reed studied Architectural Drafting at Pierce Jr. College. Mark is a successful actor, activist and small businessman. After working in management positions for several years, he bought his first company at age 26 and opened a small retail store. He sold both and bought out his second company at age 32.

"We are at a crossroads and the question before us is...Do we want the Government to step in and try to solve our problems or do we, the American people, act responsibly and solve our own problems?" – Mark Reed

Reed has been actively involved in the Veterans' efforts to save the VA Sepulveda and West Los Angeles medical centers from encroachment by private sector developers (profit and non-profit). Reed believes that Veterans land is sacred, just as tribal lands are sacred to the American Indians. Mark believes what John Adams said, "There are two ways to enslave a nation. One is by arms. The other is by debt." He has a strong belief in fixing our education system, establishing a strong border policy, prison reform, addressing the climate-hoax; find a common sense solution to health care without Government take-over along with many other strong conservative issues. "I want to keep my children free. I'm running for Congress to restore fiscal discipline. I'd welcome your help".

"We here at the Independence Caucus are proud to announce our endorsement of this great and Principled Candidate for Congress in the 27th District of California, Mark Reed."

The Independence Caucus was started by volunteers who came together while working to elect Jason Chaffetz to Congress in 2008., Fed up with unsustainable spending in Washington, and total disregard for Constitutional limits on government authority, Independence Caucus founders realized that incumbents from both parties have been compromised by the "Big Money" special interest groups who fund their perpetual re-election campaigns, and have embarked on a mission to sniff out and expose the incumbents political money trails, and train others across the country exactly how to boot compromised politicians out of office and replace them with ones who will actually represent and listen to their constituents.

The organization has hundreds of researchers and volunteers across the country working to put America back on track.
